

Another memory from Mrs D (Codsall)

I remember when there was an additional primary school called Histons Hill. Unfortunately it closed in the early 1980's before being turned into social services offices and more recently bulldozed.

I have such fond memories of my early years here! Watching eggs in incubators hatch into chicks.

The revolving birthday cake in assembly for birthdays. The Christmas play that involved the whole school! I remember the teddy bears picnic we had on the field as a last celebration as a school before it closed and we were moved to St Nicholas primary.

In hindsight. We could use the extra school now!
